ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED.

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are the victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now, we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. Mark Tapley, who was jolly under all the trying circumstances in which he was placed, never had an attack of dyspepsia, or his jolity would have speedily forsaken him. Men and women sometimes suffer its tortures uncomplainingly, but whoever heard of a person who enjoyed them?

Of all the multifarious diseases to which the human system is liable, there is perhaps no one so generally prevalent as dyspepsia. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are so depressing to the mind and so positively distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it is not our intention to discant on the horrors of Dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility, but it is not possible to point out a remedy. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this:

DYSPEPSIA PREVAILS

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one; for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the easy reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But the majority will not. Blinded by prejudice, or deterred by some other unexplained influence, they refuse to accept the relief proffered them. They turn a deaf ear to the testimony of the thousands whose sufferings have been alleviated, and with stubborn infatuation, appear to cling with desperate determination to their ruthless tormentor. But say a dyspeptic: What is this remedy? to which we reply. This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. It has allayed the agonies of thousands, and is to day carrying comfort and encouragement to thousands of others. The acknowledged panacea is none other than

DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than be can learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, than abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED,

first of all, that HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in any sense of the term. They are composed wholly of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. This is not a mere assertion. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the ablest of German chemists. Unlike any other Bitters in the market, they are wholly free from spirituous ingredients. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire of intoxicating drink is stimulated by their use, are not valid in the case of the German Bitters. So far from indulging or inculcating a taste or desire for inebriating beverages, it may be confidentially asserted that there tendency is in a diramet rically opposite direction. Their effects can be in all cases of biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters act upon the liver as well, acting promptly and vigorously upon the Liver; they remove its torpidity and cause healthful secretion of bile—the sole agent by the stomach with the mouth indispensable elements of sound digestion in proper proportions. They give tone to the stomach—stimulate its functions, and enabling it to perform its duties as nature designed it should do. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being—in fact giving him a new lease of life.

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD.

cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in which they cannot be safely and beneficially employed; but in that most generally prevalent distres ing and dreaded disease, Dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALLED.

Now, there are certain classes of persons to whom our Bitters are not only applicable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been specially prepared. It is intended for use where a slight alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the well-known tonic properties of the pure German Bitters. This Tonic contains all the ingredients of the Bitters, but is advanced as to remove the extreme bitterness. This preparation is not only palatable, but combines in medicated form, all the virtues of the German Bitters. The solid extracts of some of Nature's choicest restoratives are held in solution by a spirituous agents of the purest quality. In cases of languour or excessive debility, where the system any ears to have become exhausted of its energies.

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the flagging and wasting energies, but invigorates and permantly strengthens its action upon the Liver and Stomach thorough, perhaps than any other the Bitters, when the same quantity is taken is none the less certain. Indigestion, Billiousness, Physical or Nervous Prostration, yield readily to its potent influence. It gives the invalid a new and stronger hold upon life, removes depression of spirits, and inspires cheerfulness. It supplants the pain of disease with the ease and comfort of perfect health. It gives strength to weakness, throws despondency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and glorious career But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic. He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly working its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil qualities.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful Pills, which are intended to be used in connection with the Liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF THE MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this variety of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the medicinal virtues of this health-giving plant in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin Pills constitute a full dose, while anywhere six to eight or a handful of other preparations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The bilgious and dyspeptic invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use. But it is not upon the Liver only that their powers are exerted. The extract of Mandrake contained in them is skillfully combined with four other extracts, one of which acts upon the stomach, one upon the upper bowels, one upon the lower bowels, and one prevents any griping effect, thus producing a pill that influences the entire digestive and alimentary system, in an equal and harmonious manner, and its action entirely free from nausea, vomiting or griping pains common to all other purgatives.

Possessing these much desirable qualities, the Podophyllin becomes invaluable as a FAMILY MEDICINE.

No household should be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose, are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifics in all cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic purify the blood, strengthen and invigorate the frame, give tone and appetite to the stomach, and thus build up the invalid anew.

Dr. Hoofland, having provided internal remedies, for diseases, has given the world one mainly for external application, in the wonderful preparation known as

DR. HOOFLAND'S GREEK OIL.

This Oil is a sovereign remedy for pains and aches of all kinds. Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Chriblains, Sprains, Burns, Pain in the Back and Loins, Ringworms, &c., all yield to its external application. The number of cures effected by it is astonishing, and they are increasing every day.

Taken internally, it is a cure for Heartburns, Kidney diseases, Sick-Headaches, Cholic, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Colds, Asthma, &c.

The Greek Oil is composed entirely of healing gums and essential oils. The principal ingredient is an oily substance procured in the MEDITERRANEAN Sea of Greece its effects as a destroyer of pain are truly magical. Thousands have been benefited by its use, and a trial by those who are skeptical will thoroughly convince them of its inestimable value.

These remedies will be sent by express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, No. 631, ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

[From the Harrisburg Telegraph.

THE EVANS CASE.

HARRISBURG, Sep. 4, 1871.

During the past two weeks a great deal has been said in the public press with regard to the collection of the war claims of Pennsylvania upon the General Government. The statements thus made are in conflict with each other, and at variance more or less with the facts of the case. As the matter has been presented, it is calculated to mislead the public judgment as to the honesty and fidelity of the State Administration. It is equally due, therefore, to the authorities, and the people of the Commonwealth that the whole truth respecting the grave matter in question should be made known. The unkind and bitter discussions in the newspaper have been observed by many of our best citizens of all parties with surprise and regret. As a Republican friend of Governor Geary, and a lover of justice, and fair dealing, I have carefully examined this whole subject, and deem it proper to correct the various misrepresentations that have been made to the public, by giving the true history and the real facts of the whole transaction, substantiated by documents obtained from official sources, and I ask that the truth may now be as extensively circulated as the errors it is intended to correct have been.

1. The General Government had claims against the State for $606,000, advanced September 19, 1861, to aid the State in the equipment of troops, and $1,304,711 43, the State's quota of a direct tax levied on the several States for war purposes by act of Congress.

2. As an offset to the United States claims, the State had vast numbers of small vouchers for expenditures for the transportation, subsistence and equipment of troops, and other expenses incidental thereto, amounting in the aggregate to $2,118,419 33.

3. To collect these claims of the State against the General Government, and to adjust and settle the accounts respectively, Colonel Morton M'Michael, jr., was appointed agent of the State by Governor Curtin, December 24, 1861.

4. During the term of Colonel M'Michael's agency he filed State claims against the Government in the proper departments at Washington, as follows:

THE Republican victory in California seems to be complete. The Republicans have not only elected the entire Congressional delegation, but the State Legislature is also Republican by a large majority, thus securing the next U. S. Senator.

IF it be true that Maine goes so goes the Union," then the Republicans need have but little fear for some time to come. At the election held in that State last week, Perham, Rep. candidate for Governor, beat his opponent 11,000, gaining 3,000 on his majority of last year. The State Legislature is also Republican by a heavy majority.

THE Republicans of Pennsylvania have good encouragement, by the result of the late elections from every point of the compass, that their principles are popular with the people. All that is necessary to secure a triumphant victory in this State, is unity of action and untiring effort from this until the election in October next. Such a result in Pennsylvania will place the Presidential election, in 1872, beyond all peradventure, in the power of the Republican party. Keep this fact in view, and go solidly to the polls. Let there be no split—no faction—no division in our ranks.

AT the time when the country was in its greatest peril—when one Southern State after another, in quick succession, was retiring from the Union; when Congressmen were withdrawing from the National Senate and House of Representatives; when the American flag was fired upon at Fort Sumter; when men and money were called for to repel insurrection and uphold the Union—the Democratic party in Congress and out refused to aid in supporting the government, but gave aid and comfort to those in rebellion. Would it now be good policy to trust them with political powers? Let the people answer at the October election. Vote the entire Republican ticket.

WHAT strange phases the shifting Democracy assume for the purpose of deceiving the people into voting their ticket. For instance during the time of the war after two years of bloody carnage and the expenditure of millions of treasure for the salvation of the Union, that party in National Convention, resolved that the war was a failure. They denounced Union soldiers as hirelings, denied them the privilege of citizenship while fighting the battle of the Union, and stigmatized them as cutthroats while upholding the honor of their country. Now, that same party would have the people believe they honor the soldier, and were favorable to the cause in which he fought. They nominate soldiers for office, and place them upon the platform of the XVth Amendment, which was opposed by them until in the late State Convention of that party, at Harrisburg, it was deemed inexpedient to go into a campaign in opposition to that amendment. The "new departure" was adopted for the purpose of hoodwinking Republicans. Democrats at heart are as strongly opposed to equal rights—to negro suffrage—as ever they were. Once give them power, and it will be found they will use it for the purpose of replacing, and annulling these constitutional guarantees.

THE thieving Tammany ring in New York City, are just now taking each other by the throats, and insisting that some Jonah of their number must be heaved overboard. Mayor Hall claims that Connelly is the man, while the latter swears that Hall should go into the deep without the benefit of clergy. In this instance the old adage will likely prove true, viz: that "when rogues fall out honest men may get their due."

In our own State we will not wonder much if a similar condition of things developed within a short time. Mr. Evans, the great embezzler, is stoutly abused just now by men with newspapers under their control, whose characters for honesty will not bear investigation; and if some of these eventually turn up as Evans' accomplices in this stupendous swindle, we shall hardly find our latter end as a result of the information.

DURING our gigantic struggle with rebellion not a single foreign potentate, principality or power, volunteered assistance to the Southern Confederacy in their treason. It was left for the Democratic party of the Northern States to give them aid and comfort in their struggle for the disruption and overthrow of this great Republic. That party has now the unblushing effrontery to solicit Republican votes for office under the government they aided an unsuccessful attempt to annihilate. Can a loyal man be found so forgetful of his obligations and duties to his country and his conscience as to yield to such solicitation? By placing Democrats in power they would indirectly aid in the destruction of all that has been gained to Liberty by the issues consequent upon our late sanguinary internecine war—the equal rights of all men. Let these things be remembered when Democrats ask Republicans to split their tickets.

A PARTY which can offer no indemnity for its past acts of treason, during the struggle of our country for national existence,—and their adoption as a party of the Fifteenth Amendment, which they have hitherto opposed with might and main, is only an acquiescence in that which they have not the power to abolish,—can not be trusted by loyal citizens with office. It would be suicidal to do so. They are doomed to a signal defeat in October, by a united and overwhelming Republican vote. See that every loyal voter comes to the polls and votes the straight Republican ticket.

WM. MEREDITH, of Pennsylvania, and Caleb Cushing, of Massachusetts, have accepted the appointments as counsel of the United States before the arbitrators at Geneva, under the Washington Treaty.

THEODORE TILTON has written and published a biography of Victoria C. Woodhull, in which she is represented as a mere tenement for the indwelling of spirits from the other world. Her words are those of a spirit—not her own. Her public acts are well marked out and she has of herself nothing to do but obey, she has no identity nor originality, nor (according to Mr. Tilton,) has had any from her infancy. Spirits answered her school lessons—became responsible for her educational fame. Her enterprises are not the coinage of her own brain. Her writings and speeches are the products of spirits which have ousted her's and taken possession of her body. Mr. Tilton does not inform us where Victoria's spirit habitates while Demosthenes occupies her body—for it is the veritable old Greek Orator who possesses Victoria—nor whether she is conscious of the departure or return of her own spirit. We had thought Victoria C. Woodhull a woman of some force and originality, but this declaration of Mr. Tilton knocks this idea to pieces. If she should be elected President it is plain it would not be her but Demosthenes who would be Chief Magistrate; and we protest he is too far behind the age for a Republican President. What does he know about steamboats, monitors, Remington rifles, mitrailleuses, chassepots, railroads, telegraphs, tariffs, coupons, bonds, &c? He was no doubt, a great orator in his day—some two thousand years ago—a regular Henry Clay of a man; but that will not answer for the progressive spirit of the present age. He may be very properly classed as "an old fogy"—and of such deliver us as President of this Republic. Besides, Demosthenes was a coward and a traitor—he sold his country to Philip of Macedon for a bribe. There is too much bribery extant now, and it would never do to place such a character in the Presidential Chair. Theodore has evidently disparaged the chances of Vic. for Presidential honors. Under these circumstances we shall be excused from withholding from her our support.

Next week we shall give extracts from this Biography of Mr. Tilton.

THE whereabouts of State Agent Evans seems to be unknown. A dispatch from a Harrisburg officer, who went to New York with the warrant and requisition for his arrest, states that after considerable trouble at Albany, Gov. Hoffman received the requisition of Governor Geary, notwithstanding the protests filed by the counsel of Evans. After the officer had procured the necessary documents from the Governor of New York, he went in search of the fugitive, visiting all the places where Evans had been in the habit of staying, but, up to last accounts, nothing could be heard of him, and it was generally supposed that he had left New York.

THE National Democratic Committee, with Mr. Randall Chairman, have adopted a new course of political tactics. They first, in their official capacity, circulate documents intended to poison the public mind, and when they fail in accomplishing that object, Mr. Randall repudiates, and denounces them as Radical tricks, forgeries, &c. This is a cunning game, but one which recoils upon the perpetrators with twofold force when once the cheat is exposed. The results of the late elections have caused a feeling in the ranks of the Democratic leaders akin to desperation, and they halt at neither fraud nor falsehood to bolster up their waining fortunes.

THE attempt of the Pay Department to place upon the Treasury Department the responsibility of the Hodge defalcation is regarded by the latter's officials as entirely unwarranted by the facts. The most complete refutation of the allegations of the Pay Department is furnished by the fact that for some time a gentleman connected with the Pay Department who is now engaged in the investigation of Hodge's accounts has been in the habit of calling upon the Treasurer's office for balances reported to the credit of paymasters, and has in several instances at his request been furnished with the statements of balances held by the Treasurer to the credit of Hodge. The officers of the Treasury claim, with much apparent justice, that their function in the matter of disbursing officers' funds are confined to the safe keeping of money deposited and to their payment on genuine and proper checks, and that they are in nowise responsible for the misappropriation of funds which have been withdrawn from their custody by disbursing officers, who render no accounts to them, and are not in the slightest degree under their control. The Secretary of War has notified the Treasury officials that if it was the intention of the Treasury Department to proceed against the New York bankers engaged with Hodge in his late transactions in Wall street, that the Paymaster General has a mass of evidence concerning the relations between the bankers and the paymaster, which is at their disposal.

THE Tammany Ring of New York is broken. Its power has ceased under the decision of Judge Barnard, granting an injunction prohibiting the expenditure of the city funds by the present city officials. R. B. Connolly city controller, has resigned, and Gen. McClellan has been appointed. It is thought Tweed and Hall will also be compelled to resign. It is time, after having squandered a million and a half of the public funds paid to men of straw—i. e. themselves under fictitious names and vouchers.

THE Russian squadron, accompanying the Grand Duke Alexis, eldest son of the Czar of Russia, en route to the United States, was anchored at Plymouth, England, on Saturday last. The vessels composing the escort propose remaining there for one week. The Grand Duke remains on board his ship during the halt.

HERE AND THERE.

—Mr. William Henry Hurlbut quotes from Mr. Tilton's life of Mrs Victoria Woodhull his account of her appearance in profile viewed over the right shoulder, and, wondering, adds, Mr. Tilton seems to have "gone about her" as the Psalmist did about Zion.

—The peculiar wedge-like form so characteristic of the flight of flocks of wild geese, is assumed by the flocks of cranes which cross the Mediterranean Sea, in their migratory wanderings. We believe naturalists have never satisfactorily explained why certain birds always fly in this manner.

—It is a singular fact in connection with the planet Venus, that skillful and qualified astronomers have asserted that it has a moon, which they themselves have seen. The size, shape, and brilliancy of this supposed satellite were even accurately described; yet probably all competent astronomers of the present day, are agreed that it has only an imaginary existence.

—A strange freak of nature has taken place in the track of the severe hailstorm that occurred in the region of Rockingham county, Va., some three weeks ago. It is this: That all the orchards in the track of the hailstorm have come out in as full bloom as they were in the spring. Not only are the apple trees in bloom but the locust trees in many places are also in bloom. A gentleman saw a tree with several bushels of ripe apples on and thousands of blossoms on the same tree. A very pretty, but strange sight.

—The New York frauds have finally come into Court, on the petition of citizens to restrain the authorities from issuing more bonds or levying more taxes. We are now getting something like a correct statement of the debt of that great sink of iniquity. Mr. Roosevelt, a Democratic Congressman from New York city, states that the debt is over $200,000,000, and of this amount $163,000,000 have been added since January 1, 1869. The debt of the city amounts to 26 per cent. of the assessed value of all the real estate in it. What a glorious thing for a community is a Democratic government.

—The famous Maelstrom, of which most of us have read such wonderful accounts in our youth, has no existence in the form of a terrible whirlpool such as is usually pictured to childhood. At least ships are not sucked in unawares by a treacherous and irresistable current which whirls them down the side of an ever diminishing circle to an awful fate. A recent English visitor to Norway writes of it: "Every year hundreds of our countrymen row over it, doubtless even bathe in it; for except at certain periods, and under certain conditions of wind and tide, it is comparatively harmless."

—If the respectable Italians are good enough to lend us their aid in abolishing the nuisance of organ-grinding, the least we can do is to bring the same return to bear upon grinders of our own nationality. We do not know how many returned volunteers are picking up a living in this not over soldierly way. We notice, however, that usually it takes a couple of braves to run the enterprise—one to turn the crank, and the other to hold the hat. We have as much gratitude as anybody for those who fought and bled and gave their legs and arms for their country; but we must insist that organ-grinding isn't military, and that even a legless or armless man can get a living in a more manly way.

—We see it stated that the whipping-post has been re-erected all over the State of Virginia, and in Chesterfield county, especially, there is a Justice Cox who greatly favors this method of punishment, especially when the offenders are negroes. Strange to say, the blacks are said to prefer flogging to imprisonment. But although they may be satisfied, and Justice Cox also, we cannot say that we like flogging in great Virginia, any better than we have liked it in little Delaware. If culprits prefer it, nor falsehood to bolster up their waining fortunes. nor falsehood to bolster up their waining fortunes.

—It could hardly be expected that a native of the land of Raleigh would tamely hear the proposition of the Yankee dame to supersede garters by a new contrivance which should do away with the fellet of Elizabeth. Says the irate Virginian: It may do well enough for those ladies who lack sufficient rotundity of limb; but our Virginia women are not deficient in any of the adjuncts that go to make up the perfect mould of form, and can keep their garters on and stockings up without resorting to any new inventions. We shall remain true to our ancient ties. It is a direct assault upon our civilization—a blow aimed at our gartered rights—and we will resent while we have a leg to stand upon. Ladies, be true to your stockings. Unfurl the banner of the garter, and inscribe upon it that grand motto of the grandest order of knighthood ever established—"Honi soit qui mal y pense"—and there is not a man, young or old in Virginia, but will rally round the flag, and shed his last drop of blood in defense of the garter rights of women, and cry, "down with the Yankee hypocrisy."

—The following amusing series of flank movements, resulting in a drawn battle, are reported from Salem, Mass.: "It having been heard that Gen. Butler was going to speak in Salem on Saturday evening, a meeting was held on Monday evening, at which it was voted to hold the caucus to choose delegates on Friday evening, thus anticipating Butler by one day. It was urged, in opposition to this course, that it had not been usual to call the caucus so long before the Convention; but to this it was replied that the people are anxious to have this thing settled, and that inquiries are being made, from all parts of the State, 'How is Salem going?' The caucus was called, and a notice of it published in the weekly edition of The Salem Gazette on Wednesday. Butler heard of the doings with great promptness, and on Wednesday morning, handbills were posted announcing that he would speak in Salem on Thursday evening, which would be the night before the caucus. This, of course, would not do, and so Dr. Loring, in his own interest, had another meeting of the Committee called for Wednesday evening at which time the previous vote was reconsidered, and the subject of a caucus indefinitely postponed."

J. L. Hodge's Confession.

Hodge was a paymaster in the U. S. Navy, and was thought to be a man of good business habits and of irreproachable character. Latterly suspicion fell upon him in the matter of his accounts, and finding that discovery of his defalcations was inevitable, he has made a full confession to his superior officer. He is defaulter to the extent of $400,000 and $500,000. He is confined at Fort McHenry, at Baltimore, and a Court Martial ordered in his case. The following is his confession:

WASHINGTON, Sept 10, 1871.
Gen. B. W. Brice:

SIR—I have to inform you that I am unable to close my accounts, and that I owe a frightful amount—about $450,000—which sum I have lost during the last four years in stock speculations, going deeper and deeper in the hope of retrieving myself. I have no excuse or mitigation of my course to offer, and propose to take the full consequence of my sin. I had thought a week ago of escaping from New York, but believe I done better in returning here to deliver myself up, as I felt I was bound to do.

I can of course make no pretense of excuse for the systematic deceit I have practiced on you, and the advantage I have taken of the special position I have held, and feel that you especially have cause to be justly inexorable against me. I have been led on by infatuation that always attends the course I entered on, hoping always to recover my loss and conceal my crime. I believe it is really a relief to be forced to discovery, for I have been in a hell on earth for years, and the alteration of hope and fear I have gone through and the constant care to avoid detection becoming too strong I desire to turn over all the property I have as a small set-off against my deficiency, and after giving any information that will assist in settling my accounts, or if possible in recovering a portion of what I have lost, I expect to take the full punishment awarded for my offense. In justice to two parties in this city through whom I have made some speculations, I wish to say that they are perfectly innocent of any knowledge that I was using the public funds. There are small balances with each of these parties to my credit, whenever the accounts are closed. The losses I made were almost entirely in New York with one house there, whose accounts I hold subject to your order. I endeavored to indgee them to make good the amount lost with them, which they knew was public money, but they have refused. I have been trying to make up my mind to this confession for some days, and was on the point of doing so this morning in your office; but I could not bring myself to say it, and wanted time to write to my innocent wife, whom this frightful information will kill. I inclose the keys of my safe and box containing my old accounts, &c. My present vouchers, receipts, &c., are in the hands of my clerks, who are all of them perfectly innocent of any knowledge of my deficiency. I shall remain at my house, No. 1432 K. street, till informed what action you have taken concerning me. There is no fear I will go away now.

Union Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania.

LA PIERRE HOUSE,
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12, 1871.

To the Republicans of Pennsylvania:

We tender you our hearty congratulations over the glorious victories recently won by the Republicans of California and Maine. In the former a state has been won, after four years of Democratic rule, by an overwhelming majority, and in the latter the firm hold of the Republican party upon the people has been maintained with a tenacity that cannot be shaken.

The victory in California has been gained after an arduous and exciting struggle. It is the result of systematic work, and it demonstrates the value of organization and well directed political labor. The victory in Maine has been won by keeping up the admirable organizations perfected in past years, under the operation of which the Republican vote has been thoroughly brought out.

Both these victories show to us the value and the necessity of thorough organization. They ought to inspirit us with the most ardent zeal and a determination to imitate the example so worthily set us. We appeal to you, therefore, while rejoicing over the victories of your brethern elsewhere, to do as they have done, and secure by your systematic labors a victory as complete as theirs.

The great stream of Republican success, which, setting in with Connecticut, has since flowed on without interruption, must not be checked in its onward flow by a Republican defeat in Pennsylvania. We owe it to our friends in the States which have so gallantly upheld our banner to stand by them, and keep Pennsylvania in the phalanx of Republican States.

We can do this only by cultivating a spirit of union and harmony, keeping up our local organizations actively, and working steadily and with a will to bring out every Republican vote. Everything depends upon organization and work.

Our intelligence from all parts of the State is cheering and encouraging. All that is wanted now is a little close attention to the details of local organization. No political victory was ever won without attention to these details, and we rely upon your spirit, energy, and zeal to carry them out systematically and render them effective.

Let the Republicans of the State be true to themselves and to their cause, stand firmly by their State nominees and local tickets, and put their ward and township committees into vigilant activity, and we shall be able to send back to Maine and California, and their sister Republican States a response as cheerful and gladdening as their messages of triumph have been to us. A Little Too Thin.

By far the weakest weapon of the Democracy in the coming contest is their morbid and maudlin appeal in behalf of labor. The leaders appear to treat the rumble as fools, and deal out their sympathy for the toiling classes with unmeasured hands. Particularly is this the fact in the mining counties. The workingmen are appealed to with great earnestness, and their support is vehemently demanded as a matter of right. Now, it is but fair to be square in politics as in all things else; and it is quite as necessary, if this labor question is to enter the canvass, that the truth be told. So far as the mining regions are concerned the Democracy are not in harmony with the laboring classes. Whether right or wrong, the latter demanded advanced wages. This was refused. By whom? By the corporations who control labor. Who are they? The Reading railroad, with a Democratic President; the Lehigh Valley railroad, with a Democratic President; the Delaware, Lackawanna and Susquehanna railroad, with a Democratic President, and others of the same ilk. So that, so far as the matter of "labor's rights" are concerned, the Democracy had better hold their whist.

But, where is the use of dragging the question in at all? There is nothing absolutely in it. Workingmen understand quite as well as politicians can tell them where their interests lie. They are not fools, though they frequently go astray. They are, however, competent to judge of the qualification of candidates, and they are not likely to support any one inimical to their interests. It will not do, therefore, for any party to attempt to play upon their passions or trade upon their sympathies. Indeed, we are surprised to find that such an attempt has been assayed. Still, it is a matter of taste. If the Democratic leaders think that their cause will be promoted by running straight in the face of facts, such as we have presented above, they may do so; but to our view they would exhibit greater wisdom and insure a wider success by ignoring imposition or anything savoring of a quality so mean. Let the workingmen alone.
—Sunday Transcript.

—The Democracy are sick. Their own "now departure," supplemented as it had been by those of Maine and California, is too much for them. In view of the situation, a prominent Western Democratic journal says:

"Democrats who desire to be instrumental in bringing about reforms must now see the folly of any longer expecting any success for the Democratic party. Let them, therefore, leave Pendleton, and Hendricks, and Stevens, and Thurman to quarrel over the manner in which slavery was abolished and the Fifteenth Amendment adopted, and, joining the Republican party in their several districts, elect a Congress that will take an intelligent view of national affairs, and have the ability to institute and execute the reforms absolutely demanded by the imperiled condition of the country.

—Hartford, Conn., has been favored with a flight of the most beautiful butterflies passing overhead in a southwesterly direction, for the better part of three days. Beginning on Saturday, the nineteenth ultimo, the novel migration continued thro' Sunday, and only came to an end on the afternoon on Monday, the twenty-first, at which time the insect flight assumed portentous proportions, as if a heavy rear-guard was bringing up the column. The insects are described as flying at all heights, and are represented as about four inches across the wings from tip to tip, and of "a rich cinnamon color, deeply veined with black bars, and lines in various patterns, and a broad dark border, prettily marked by a triple row of white spots."

THE HARPER MURDER IN KENTUCKY.

Particulars of the Butchery.

[From the Louisville Journal, 13th.]

The brother and sister of old Mr. John Harper, the owner of Longfellow, were murdered in their beds, at their residence, in Woodford county, just before daylight Monday morning. Who did the terrible deed, is not known. Mr. John Harper and his old bachelor brother and maiden sister were the only white persons who lived on the place. They were born there, and had lived there together until the youngest was over 70 years of age. It was an immense estate—one of the largest—and the owners the most wealthy farmers in Kentucky. It is about three miles from Midway, and 15 miles from Lexington, adjoins the great Alexander stock-farm, and is in the heart of the Blue Grass Region. Mr. John Harper was not at home on the fatal night. He had gone to the Lexington races, at which the famous Longfellow and several other of his horses were to run. Mr. Jacob Harper and Miss Betsy Harper were the only ones at home, except about 20 or 30 negroes, who are employed upon the plantation.

Judging from appearances, the bloody work must have been committed about 4 o'clock in the morning. It was not discovered until after sunrise. Mr. Jacob sleeps in a room adjoining that of his sister, upon the first floor. About 5½ o'clock the housekeeper, a negro woman, went into the room of Miss Betsy, but noticed nothing wrong. She remembers of hearing the old lady groan once or twice; but as she was very feeble, and had been almost bedridden for a long time, no particular attention was paid to it. A half hour after this Mr. Harper's man-servant went in to wake him. He first called, and then took hold of the old man's shoulder, but still noticed nothing except he was unusually hard to wake. He then left the room. The first discovery was made by the woman servant who, having gone to wake Miss Betsy, noticed blood upon the bedclothes, and, upon looking closer, found that the old lady's head and face were horribly gashed, and that she was lying in a pool of blood. The bed was literally besmeared with gore. The woman ran out screaming, and the alarm was given. Mr. Harper was found with his head almost beaten to a jelly, and dead. He was cold and stark and stiff. Miss Betsy was unconscious, but still living. She was not dead at noon yesterday.

When John Harper arrived home, the shock almost overcame him. The whole neighborhood had assembled and crowded the rooms and the halls in mute horror. The negroes stood around the doors weeping, and the old house-servant, the nurse of Miss Betsy, knelt at the bedside of her old mistress, crying as if her heart would break. Old John cried like a child. It was a terrible moment, and many who had feared the consequences of his arrival, now believed that he would not survive the shock. No time was to be lost, however, and an investigation was immediately undertaken. The coroner arrived about 11 o'clock and proceeded to hold an inquest. A number of negroes upon the place were examined, and, though the evidence had not all been heard at last accounts, there was enough to fasten the guilt upon several of the colored employes. It seems that, on Saturday last, Mr. Jacob Harper went down to Frankfort, and it is thought, drew $500 or $1,000 out of bank. Upon his return to Midway, he offered to bet large sums on the Longfellow race, and exhibited money, and this came to the knowledge of the assassins. It was not the habit of the family to keep money about the house. Money was undoubtedly the object of the murder, but whether the murderers obtained any or not is not known. A pocket-book that Mr. Harper generally carried was missing from his body, though nothing else about the house was disturbed.

Lone Man of Twitchell Island.

The Antioch (Cal.) Ledger, of August 25th, says: "On the northern side of Twitchell Island, near the bank of the mighty Sacramento, there has lived alone, without neighbor, kith, or kin, for four years, a man named Russell. Fascinated with the beauty of the spot, this eccentric individual, who, by occupation, is a trapper, built for himself a convenient and substantial house, surrounded it with an orchard, vineyard, ornamental trees, etc., and until recently, since the lands have been reclaimed and brought under a state of cultivation, he was like Alexander Selkirk, 'monarch of all he surveyed.' When the tax was levied for the construction of a levee around the island he paid his apportionment on two hundred acres which he had purchased of the State, but requested that his home should not be inclosed, desiring the benefit of the river's overflow. Mr. Russell has engaged extensively in bee raising, and annually ships large quantities of honey to San Francisco, which he finds a profitable business. Man naturally seeks society, and an individual who, for this number of years, could exclude himself from the world and amusement in communing with his own thoughts and nature, apparently perfectly contented, must, indeed, be peculiarly constituted."

Adroitly Hit.

A correspondent of the Herald and Presbyter, writing from Minnesota, tells the following. I have picked up a "little story" which I think too good a reproof for disturbers of the peace in churches to be lost. A presiding elder of the United Brethren Church was preaching in this same neighborhood, and was much annoyed by persons talking and laughing. He paused, looked at the disturbers, and said, "I am always afraid to reprove those who misbehave in church. In the early part of my ministry I made a great mistake. As I was preaching, a young man who sat just before me was constantly laughing, talking and making uncouth grimaces. I paused and administered a severe rebuke. After the close of the service one of the official members came and said to me, 'Brother——, you made a great mistake. That young man whom you reproved is an idiot.' Since then I have always been afraid to reprove those who misbehave in church lest I should repeat that mistake, and reprove another idiot." During the rest of that service at least there was good order.

Personal.—H. Hice, esq., a prominent lawyer of this place, and one of Beaver's best citizens, is about to leave our town to reside in Beaver Falls. His extensive business connections in the latter place seems to make this move a necessity which can no longer be avoided. It is to be hoped that this change among us will not be permanent.

—Mr. J. R. Imbrie, brother to the Messrs. Imbrie of Beaver, who has, for the past six or eight years, held a position in the Surgeon General's Department at Washington, D. C., is on a visit to his relatives in this place. He returns to Washington in the course of a couple of weeks. Mr. I.'s long continuance in the same Department attests his efficiency as a clerk and his merits as a man.

Post No. 219, G. A. R., of Beaver Falls, exhibited a beautiful Military Allegory, to crowded houses, for several days last week, at Lafayette Hall. The performances were under the supervision of R. The charity fund of that Post has been considerably augmented.

Arithmetical.—"Now, my boy," said a school director, "if I had a mince pie, and should give two-twelfths of it to John, two-twelfths to Isaac, two-twelfths to Harry, and should take half the pie myself, what would there be left?" Speak up loud so that the people can hear." "The plate!" shouted the boy.

It is the duty of every true woman to look as beautiful as she can. It is her duty to brighten and gladden the world with her loveliness just as the flowers and trees, the skies and waters brighten and gladden it. Her sense of the beautiful should always and everywhere be cultivated, for thus will her thoughts be made pure, and her mind be the home of sweet and lovely things. Refinement comes of all things beautiful.

An Excellent Reform.—It is a matter of general satisfaction to travellers on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad that the practice of checking tickets before entering the train (starting from the Allegheny Station) has been at last abandoned. Several suits have been brought against the man whom the Company employed to perform that unnecessary duty, attention was directed to the matter, and the managers of the road wisely abolished the whole system—for which though simply a matter of justice, they have received many thanks from those who now pursue their travels in perfect peace.

He keeps a very large stock, and buys his goods direct from the manufacturers, for cash, so that he is able to sell just as low as New York and Boston dealers. He is also Agent for Philadelphia Manufactured Goods, selling at factory prices. Country Merchants can have their orders filled promptly, and satisfaction guaranteed. PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, on and after May 6th, and until the 1st of September, the County Commissioners will meet at their office in the borough of Beaver, only on Saturdays of each week. [ma5tf] JOHN M'GOUN, Clerk.

The Egg Question.—A question in the ARGUS a short time ago seemed difficult of solution. An old farmer at North Sewickley gave the writer a solution of it which is doubtless correct. The question was in regard to eggs. First count in bad 20, second 30 and third 50. All sold them at the same rates and received the same amount of money for their eggs. The rates agreed upon were 2 cts. per dozen and one cent for the odd eggs. It is evident that each received the same sum of money for her eggs. If the astute propounder of hard questions has any more of the same character let him send them to Culbertson Chow, esq., and obtain the solution.

The meeting was accidental, and all parties said to be in excellent health.

An Independent Judiciary.—Solomon Dunkleberger, of Little Mahoney township, Northumberland county, is said to be the only Republican in the township, and the only man who can read and write. To Marriageable Ladies.—For the benefit of those of our lady readers who wish to change their state of single blessedness, we publish the following extract of a letter from a lonely pioneer of La Corna, Wyoming:—"I sincerely wish that many hundreds of old maids and widows who cannot get husbands at home would come out here, where they could speedily get a choice of good, honest, hard-working men, who could make them comfortable and independent. There are, I really think, five men here for one woman. In fact, very many men have been compelled to live with native Indian women, who, to my eye, are perfect frights, and worse in their conduct than appearance, although that is bad enough."

Prohibition Ticket.—It seems that we were misinformed last week as to who composed a portion of the Prohibition ticket. The ticket is as follows:

Assembly.—James H. Fife, Beaver Falls.
Associate Judge.—James W. Mitchell, Beaver Falls.
Treasurer.—Robert Mears, Rochester.
Commissioner.—S. M. Elder, Darlington.
Auditor.—John Decker, New Brigton—3 years, Francis Banks, Beaver Falls—1 year.
Poor House Director.—Joseph M. Alexander, New Brighton.
Trustees of Academy.—Rev. David Williams, New Brighton, Rev. J. L. Deems, New Brighton.

No nominations have been made for District Attorney or Surveyor, as yet.

Rev. A. H. Bowers, a minister in the M. E. Church, and who has resided in Beaver since last spring, was appointed by the Erie Conference, which met a couple of weeks ago, to take charge of the Youngsville Circuit, Erie Conference. The reverend gentleman left for the scene of his future labors last week. He is a very worthy gentleman, has an agreeable and interesting family, and it is to be hoped they will find their new home a pleasant one.

A Mistake.—The general understanding for some time past was that Democrats were averse to filling positions of honor and profit. In Lawrence county, in this state, furnishes testimony strong enough to dispel this illusion. At the present time there are one hundred and fifty-six Democrats in that county announced as candidates for the various offices. There are thirty-three candidates for nomination for State Senator, thirty-six for Assembly, thirty for Sheriff, twenty-six for Treasurer, twenty for Commissioner, and six for Associate Judge. What a lot of sore heads there will be the day after the nominating convention is held!

NEW FALL MILLINERY.—Mrs. Fast has this week received a new lot of Fall Millinery and she will keep on hand a fine supply of trimmed hats and bonnets.

Mr. Isaac Shane, of Brighton township, knows how to put the proprietor and employes of a printing office in a good humor. The College, at Washington, Pa., begins its present session under very favorable auspices. We Rise to Explain.—Tramping printers whose breath suggest the bunghole of a whisky barrel, are respectfully requested to give our office a wide berth. We don't want them at any price. In our judgment, a good printer, or any other competent mechanic, need not go wandering here and there in search of employment, and failing to get any, resort to begging from them who have habits better than their own.

Narrow Escape.—On last Thursday evening, as Professor D. Eckels and family, of Carlisle, Pa., were preparing to retire for the night, they narrowly escaped a terrible coal oil conflagration. One of the Professor's daughters, it appears, took the lamp up from the table, intending to leave the room. While in the act of doing so she ran down into the oil, when she immediately dropped the lamp upon the floor. Her father rushed to the spot, and attempted to extinguish the flames, but of no avail. He then gathered up the carpet containing the burning lamp, and threw it into the street, thus making a very narrow escape from a terrible conflagration. Persons cannot exercise too much care in the use of coal oil.

How Politicians are Made.—General Butler is not exactly such a man as fills our mind's eye, yet for all that he occasionally tells some wholesome truths which are hard to get over. Here is one of them. In one of his recent speeches he told how politicians are made. The process is thus described: "If they live in the country they get together a little newspaper, and that newspaper being owned by them, they hire the editor, and he agrees to puff them upon all occasions, until at length, by reason of continued puffing, it is supposed that the politicians are somebody after all." That's the way. Hasn't that been the way in this State, and haven't people always looked into newspapers to see what there was about public men, and rarely thought for themselves?

Arrest of an Alleged Incendiary.—We referred last week to the burning of Messrs. Briggs and Jackson's store in Industry, on the preceding Sabbath evening. On the Monday succeeding the fire a watch, chain, and some nickel amounting to some twelve or fourteen dollars, was found in a vacant house near Industry, belonging to Mr. Clark Usselton. The chain and nickel were identified by Messrs. Briggs and Jackson, who alleged they belonged to them and were in the drawer of the store the evening preceding the fire. This seemed to prove conclusively that the store had been robbed first and then set on fire. The finding of a portion of the goods on Mr. Usselton's premises fastened suspicion upon him and an information was accordingly made charging him with robbery and arson. He was arrested and taken before Esquire Todd of Industry tp., who committed him. On reaching Beaver, and the court being in session, he was allowed to give bail for his appearance at the November term.

The President and family visited the Oil Regions, last week, and was everywhere received with the utmost enthusiasm. He unexpectedly arrived in Pittsburgh on Friday afternoon from Franklin, via Allegheny Valley Railroad. The party consisted of the President and Mrs. Grant, Ulysses, Jesse and Nellie, and the family nurse. For the benefit of our lady readers we copy the Gazette correspondent's description of the personal appearance of the ladies of the distinguished party:

Mrs. Grant is a muddle aged lady, a little inclined to be corpulent, naturally and graceful in manners. She seems as one whose tastes and habits are more domestic than public. She was dressed in black, lustrous silk and overskirt with lace trimmings. A black short cloak trimmed with white braid and fringe, black hat with velvet trimmings and feather. Jet jewelry with necktie.

Nellie Grant is a young looking girl of fine complexion, plump and rosy, with regular features—She wore a black silk dress with buff overskirt trimmed with double rows of fluting of the same; similar trimmings on her sleeves; long cloak; straw hat with black veil; white collar and cuffs with large gold stone.

The President said he was traveling as a private citizen and desired no demonstration, preferring a quiet trip to the excitement of formal receptions. This, however, did not prevent the people from expressing their respect for their Chief Magistrate, and an immense throng gathered in Franklin to bid him farewell. There was no speech-making, however, and nothing formal in the adieu as the train moved out of the depot. At Brady's Bend, Parker's Landing, Emlenton, and Kittanning, where were crowds of people assembled to see the President, who stepped out upon the platform of the car, but did not speak. On arriving at the depot in Pittsburgh, the Presidential car was detached, and run on a side track at the upper end of the platform. His arrival was known to but a limited circle, that the news rapidly spread, and by the time the cars moved off on the Pan Handle road in the direction of little Washington, quite a large crowd had gathered. The President visits his relations in Washington county.

Joseph Linnenbrink, M. D.—At a recent meeting of the Medical Society of Beaver county, the following action was taken:

On motion, the chair appointed Drs. Isaac Winans, D. S. Marquis and J. E. Jackson, a committe to report the sense of the society in regard to the death of Dr. Linnenbrink, and after retiring a short time reported the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, we, the members of this society have learned with sorrow, that since our last meeting, death has removed from our midst, one of our esteemed members, Dr. Joseph Linnenbrink, who, during a long life had been an ardent worker in the profession; and was loved and esteemed by all that knew him, for his goodness of heart and many genial qualities. AND, WHEREAS, those of us who often met him during the busy periods of his life—as well remember him as always cheerful, cordial and pleasant—desire to express therefore, as members of the society, to bear testimony and manifest our sympathies in this bereavement; it is therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Dr. Joseph Linnenbrink, of Rochester, this society acknowledges a fraternal visitation, which has removed from our fellowship an honored citizen and member of this society, and whose friendly greetings are still fresh to us all.

Resolved, That as members of the Medical Society of Beaver county, we hereby express our regard as well as our sense of the loss we have sustained in the death of one of the old founders of this society, and of whom but few now remain.

Resolved, That the sincere and heartfelt sympathies of the society be respectfully tendered to the family and friends of the deceased and assure them their sorrow is shared by every member, and trust that they may find consolation in the many good acts of his life, in the gratitude with which his name will be cherished, and in the trust that a useful and devout earthly existence has prepared him for a life of clearer knowledge and purer happiness.

Resolved, That these proceedings be spread upon the minutes of the society, with a copy presented officially to the family, and published in at least two papers of the county.

Another Railroad Accident.—The police of Chicago, last Sunday one week ago, arrested a man named Robert Johnson Brown, believing him to be the person who escaped in October, 1869, from Harrisburg Jail, Pa., where he was held to answer a charge of murder. A copy of the hand-bill was produced, giving a description of the fugitive The arrest is said to have been brought about in this way: Brown had been working in a rolling mill in Chicago for some years. Some months since, an ex-police officer, who had once read the bill copied above, obtained employment at the same mill. One day the ex-officer recognized him by the scar on his shoulder, and at once communicated his suspicions to the police. Mr. Brown denies ever having been in jail, and says that he was never looked up before in his life. He claims to have been working in the rolling mills for upward of five years, and previous to that time worked for three years in the South. He says he never was in New Castle, but that he worked in Pittsburgh about eleven years ago.

If such a state of things exist in Pittsburgh, and we presume the Chronicle knows whereof it affirms, there is more inhumanity there than we ever dreamed of. We are shocked to learn that there are people in a city so near us as Pittsburgh, who are so destitue of human sympathy as the Chronicle represents them. They need reconstruction badly.

That the public may judge correctly how much reliance may be placed in the accounts given by "interviewers" of the views of persons holding official positions, whose opinions on subjects in involving the public interest are supposed to have great weight in shaping public sentiment, we cite a recent case of which we happen to have some knowledge.

The account given by a reporter of the Philadelphia Sunday Times of an "interview" with Hon. Thos. Nicholson, Cashier in the State Treasury, on the subject of the Evans steal, said to have taken place at Harrisburg the last week in August, was published in the Beaver Radical of the 1st instant. Where the stuff, said to be the result of this interview was concocted, and for what purpose, the knowing ones have not informed us; but we are very credibly informed that Mr. Nicholson was at his home at Frankfort Springs in Beaver county at the time the "interview" is said to have occurred. [Added not to before—they are active.]

And here let us drop a remark for the congratulation of the virtuous accusers of Evans and Governor Geary. Of course the hands of such immaculate, eager accusers were never stained with bribes nor misappropriated public money. George O. Evans was appointed under an act of Assembly which neither required security of him, nor that he should pay over to the State any money he might collect. He was recommended for the appointment by many members of the same Assembly, and whoever may be to-day guilty in this matter the wrong originated in that body. It is not forgotten that the editor of the Radical was a member of that Assembly as was also the present Collector of this district. Of course neither of these gentlemen had any hand in passing the act which left the doors of the Treasury open, nor in recommending the thief who entered and stole the money. One would think not at least. If they had it would be becoming in them now to "lay their mouths in the dust."—Lawrence Journal.

"A Probable Schism in the M. E. Church."

MR. EDITOR:—In the ARGUS of the 6th inst., I noticed an article with the above title that contains expressions of fear, and an evident misapprehension of the subject to which reference is made. The object of this present article is not to answer the former for the purpose of controversy, but to humbly attempt to correct its errors.

I cannot particularly take objection to the writer's definition of the doctrine of sanctification as entertained and taught by this branch of the Christian Church, yet it is not a "question latterly sprung up among the members," but the late special movement to which reference is made is but the revival of and adherence to the doctrine which "has always been a peculiarity of this church" since its organization. While the leaders in these special meetings (I am sorry that the term "new departure" having at present such an unpleasant signification to the people should be so irrelevantly employed in connection with this subject,) for the promotion of holiness give prominence to the doctrine of entire sanctification, they by no means ignore the doctrine of justification, nor do they aim "to make regeneration of little or no consequence," but regarding it as a great and glorious work wrought in the soul, they, authorized by the word of God, humbly exhort them that are sanctified to be "sanctified wholly," and to "leave the principles of the doctrines of Christ" and "go on unto perfection," secured that "being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ; by whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God." The writer of this present article has providentially been permitted to attend a few of these meetings spoken of, and thereby given opportunity to mingle with some of the people professing to enjoy "perfect love," and has never been able to discover a single infimation that the "other assemblages" of the Christian people "had some other object in view," nor has there ever been seen, in these meetings attended, an apparent move or expression on the part of the leaders, that could be properly interpreted as aiming to "unchurch all their own and other denominations that do not think and teach as they do;" but the writer has rejoiced to see members of different denominations mingling affectionately together, whose watchword was "Purity of heart," and who were glad to know, that "the blood of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin;" and rather than frown on their brethren in the church, they have endeavored "by love's divine attraction" to draw them to the "fountain opened" "for sin and uncleanness."

Seeing this, the conclusion has been reached that if there exists any animosity in the church toward the doctrine of "Holiness to the Lord" it must be among those who stand aloof from this movement for its promotion, which thus far been so signally blessed; and not knowing this state of feeling to be bitterly aroused or likely to be, the writer feels confident in saying that so long as we are all "hungering and thirsting after righteousness" there is no probability of a schism, but that "With all lowliness and meekness, with long suffering, forbearing one another in love," there will be harmony by "endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." May God bless us thus, and all us "with all the fullness of God."

SELECT MISCELLANY.

GENERAL KEARNY.

The Type Volunteer General of the War.

We condense the following biographical sketch of the late "Philip Kearny" from an article in Beecher's Magazine:

"Who commands this company?"

"I do, sir."

"Well, sir, it is time you were at the head of it."

Such was the writer's first interview with the wonderful Kearny. It occurred just as the mist of a beautiful summer morning was lifting, and before the reveille had ceased to beat. He did not stop, and turned his head no more than was necessary to see that all was in order for the morning roll-call.

And the next was like unto it. The rebels had followed up their success at Bull Run by taking up a position upon the very outskirts of Washington. The lines of outposts were face to face, and the Union pickets had received orders not to fire upon the enemy, except in case of necessity. A few shots were fired by some of the men upon the outer lines, from a supposed necessity which need not be here related. The ever-listening ears of Kearny heard them, of course, and a few minutes later the "officer of the day" was seen galloping up the turnpike, his orderly leading an extra horse. It required no powers of divination to anticipate his errand.

"I am directed by General Kearny to place you in arrest, and order you to report immediately at brigade headquarters."

The captain delivered up his sword and mounted the extra horse.

Arrived at the house in which headquarters had been comfortably established, Kearny began to discharge a fusilade of questions at him, but received only monosyllabic replies; a perfect file fire of interrogations—short, sharp, incisive, impossible to be misunderstood, asking several before giving time to answer one—but still the same "Yes, sir," and "No, sir." Finding he was gaining no light, he flirted the empty sleeve in his peculiar way, and said, "Sit down, Captain, take a seat sir. Elucidate this matter; elucidate this matter. Which was done. Ascertaining that there was no cause of complaint against the Captain or his men, he bestowed his customary blessing upon the parties really at fault, and then dismissed him with a polite, "Take a cigar sir; return to your command, sir."

These incidents will serve to introduce the justly famous but little known man, who has been well called "the type volunteer general of the war." Small as they are, they present some of the striking characteristics of the man. Indeed, everything he did or said was peculiar to himself. His character was entirely original, both in its merits and its faults. He made no man his model—copied no one's manner or style.

Of Kearny it may be truthfully said that "he was born a soldier. He was descended from a line of soldiers. His very name (Cearnach, in the original Celtic) means "soldier." De Lancey and Watts, his ancestral names on his mother's side, are noted ones in the annals of the British army, including many general officers, one of whom fell at Waterloo. The hereditary military career of Kearney began to appear at an early age. At fifteen he was extensively read in the military history of our own and foreign countries, had his favorite heroes, and his room decorated with their pictures. His conversation and amusements partook largely of the same character.

Perhaps the first distinctive characteristic which would strike one upon making his acquaintance was his intense decision. He never hesitated. His judgments were fully formed before he spoke or acted. Such was the tension of his perceptive faculties, that all the resources of his mind were at instant command and no sober second thought was needed; the first conclsion was correct, if any. There seemed to be scarcely any interval between his remarkable quick grasp of facts and the full maturity of his decisions. It is thought not too much to say that throughout his career during the rebellion, he never had occasion to change a plan, modify a conclusion, or voluntarily abandon a project.

Many of the most celebrated battles have been decided by a brilliant charge at the right point and the right moment, by a mere fraction of the troops engaged. The dash of McMahon at Magenta, won the day, and made him a duke with that title. The final charge of the Imperial Guard turned the even scales at Solferino. "Up, guards, and at them," won Waterloo.

In body as in mind, Kearny bore the stamp of his martial birthright. When young he appears to have been slight and delicate of body. He is described by his teachers as "never strong or robust"—"a mild, amiable, gentle boy, with a soft, blue eye"—obedient and docile at school, devoted to his studies, and took a high rank as a scholar." As he grew up, however, he developed into a splendid specimen of physical manhood. As a young man he was slender, but unusually symmetrical. At full maturity his form was superb. Of medium height, he was admirably proportioned—not too slender for the full expression of power, or so stout as to suggest the slightest idea of stiffness. There was no unnecessary flesh, and no softness. His muscle was hard and firm, and his sinews were steel. Of a highly excitable temperament, he was strong, athletic and "nimble as a cat." Erect and firm in attitude, his bearing was dignified, graceful and commanding. Athority, tempered by kindliness of heart, and a disposition to fairness and justice, were written in the prominent features and delicate lines of his face. He was every inch a soldier. Virgil's hero recognized his goddess mother because she 'walked a queen;' Kearny looked, walked and rode a soldier.

He was essentially an active man. His very nature seemed averse to repose: indolence formed no part of his composition. His inertia was rather that inability to change a state of action to one of repose. The bow was always bent, the vital forces ever at a glow. His powerful, well-knit, nervous frame seemed always to be under the lash of some resistless necessity of action—the unseen, mysterious vital force. Even during the hours devoted to sleep, he would often wake up and resume the activities of the day. He is unjustly and too generally supposed to have been a man of impulse, hot-tempered and headlong. Such was not the judgment of those who served under his command. It is true he was impetuous, but it was the impetus of the planet, not the meteor—a steady glow, and not a flickering light. He never strained to exhaustion, or sank into inactivity, but was animated by the constant stimulus of a steady purpose.

In action he was in his native element. Kearny never lost his presence of mind. The excitement stimulated all his faculties to their utmost effort, but into well balanced and harmonious action. He thought, combined and decided his best and rapidest. His feelings were not harrassed nor his thoughts diverted by any consideration foreign to the occasion, but his whole mind was bent upon the one purpose of defeating the enemy. Thus all his capabilities were at his command.

The results of Kearny's incessant labor with her first brigade may well be appreciated by the State of New Jersey. Few will be found to dispute the claim that it was for a long time, as it was often called, "the best brigade in the service." The famous Vermont brigade, at a later day, contested that reputation; and in point of marching qualities on a hard campaign, it must be admitted, successfully. On one occasion, while reviewing "the Jersey Brigade," McClellan was heard to say: "What a deal of cursing it must have taken to bring this brigade to this condition." At this brigade to this condition." At the Bailey's Cross-Roads Review, some of the companies embracing not less than 100 men, the companies then being nearly or quite full—marched past the reviewing officer with fronts in which no eye could detect a waver. It was not without justice that it became, in the first organization of the army, the first brigade of the first division of the first corps.

* * * Much of his life was spent abroad. The year after the completion of his legal studies was spent in Europe. Whilst a young Lieutenant of cavalry he was detailed for foreign service, and spent about a year in France and Algeria. On resigning his commission, in 1851, he started from California westward, and gave two years in making the circuit of the world, visiting most of its celebrated places, many of them such as ordinary tourists never heard of, observing and studying the people and institutions of other lands. After three years of attention to his private affairs, (during which he fixed his home on the banks of the Passaic, just above and opposite Newark, N. J.,) he again went abroad in 1856, and remained until the grand proportions of the rebellion began to be realized, in the spring of 1861. * * *

Kearny's charge at the battle of Cherubusco, with three troops of dragoons, probably not more than one hundred sabres, persuing a routed Mexican army of 30,000 men, until he, with less than a dozen men, in hand-to-hand conflict, actually entered the San Antonio gate with the flying enemy, is a familiar story the world over. "Decorated with an empty sleeve," he was also breveted Major for his gallant and meritorious service. After the war he saw considerable active servite among the hostile tribes on the frontiers, and at one time had a severe fight with the "Rogue River" Indians. * *

At the gate of Mexico he supposed himself followed by three troops of dragoons, and had not the recall been sounded without his knowledge, it is quite possible, if not probable, that Santa Anna himself would have been captured. At Solferino and Glendale he lost his way. Upon the field of his lamented fall, an emergency had arisen which demanded unusual promptness of combination and action. He must see for himself, and in doing so he risked his life and lost it. Scott has said of him: "If one man is more brave than another, that man was Philip Kearny. He was the bravest man I ever saw, and a perfect soldier." * * *

None who were present on the morning after Kearny's death will ever forget the occasion. His fate was not immediately known, even in his own command. Stevens had been killed, and his division forced back by the onset of the enemy. Kearney, who had been in reserve, pushed promptly forward to take his place. While reconnoitering, personally and alone, a portion of the field with a view to the disposition of his troops, he rode unwittingly into the enemy's lines. Summoned to surrender, he turned his horse and threw himself into an almost horizontal position in his saddle to escape, but the fatal bullet took effect and traversed almost the entire length of his body. He fell into the hands of the enemy, and it was not known whether he was killed or only a prisoner. A rumor of his death spread rapidly, and, by the next morning, had extended through the whole army. Many refused to credit it, until the sad confirmation came from the enemy. "Stonewall" Jackson, in whose corps the name of Kearny was as familiar as his own in ours, with that chivalrous appreciation which marks all truly brave men, and which sees no enemy in a dead or wounded soldier, restored his body, sword and horse to the Union commander. As the ambulance containing his body came slowly down the turnpike and passed through the lines, a solemn hush pervaded all the troops. Drenched by a furious storm during the battle of the previous evening, most had passed sleeplessly the long, chilly night; worn out by constant marching and fighting; heart-sick with slaughter and disaster, they saw the campaign closed near the capitol, and almost upon the spot where Kearney had begun it. And the crowning fact was the fall of one of their idols, one who was loved by every soldier in the Army of the Potomac.

Truth requires it should be added that his failings, like his merits, were conspicuous; but "let nothing unless good be said of the dead." A grateful people will ever throw the mantle of charity over all his faults, and hallow his name with an affectionate remembrance.

Nutmegs.

The destruction of the Nutmeg crop of the Banda Islands, which was rabled here some two months since, has been fully confirmed by mail advices. The effect upon the markets of the world show to how great an extent this disaster will curtail the supply. The East India markets show a steady advance in prices, which, to last mail reports, has aggregated $20 per picul since the hurricane. The annual sale by the Dutch Trading Company, at Rotterdam, on last Wednesday, established an advance of 50 centimes within two months, and the London market and our own exhibit similar results. The effect of these changes in market value establishes that fully 25 cents per pound in gold is for a long time to be added to the cost of these almost indispensable articles of luxury. Mace, which is the product of the same plant, shows even a greater increase in value. Cannot American energy develop in the far South the cultivation of the Nutmeg tree, and thus relieve the world of the hazard of the destruction of so important a crop by local disasters?

The above remark as to American production is equally applicable to Pepper, an article of staple value and great consumption, the product of which for the past few years has not been equal to the consumption. The price has advanced some forty percent. within that time, and is steadily and surely increasing in value, yielding greater money returns to the producer, and drawing proportionately more per pound from American weal h. The market advices from all points indicate that this autumn's trade will very decidedly increase this result.

—Whatever else Brigham Young may be, it is pretty certain by this time that the polygamous prophet is not a fool. He possesses the somewhat rare talent which if it had been his in a greater degree might have saved the First Napoleon—the talent of gracefully backing down when circumstances have become otherwise unmanageable. For reasons of his own, possibly with the idea of keeping the Gentile emigration at its lowest point, Brigham has always discouraged the development of the mining interests of Utah, and this is the foundation of his quarrel with Godbe Harrison and other lost Mormons. Now he gives up his policy, and, since the mines must be worked, he is making arrangements to have them worked for his own benefit, or, at least under his own control. Here, it appears to us, is evidence that, if brought to bay upon the polygamy question, the Lion of Utah will meekly give up the point, pension of his superfluous ribs, and direct his followers to do the same. Why shouldn't he? He has reached an age at which mere appetite, if it ever had anything to do with his own indulgence, must become stale and controllable. The patriarchal system has answered its purpose, (not of promoting population, for in that respect it is a failure), but of attracting the attention of the world. It can do no good now, and it will be easily abandoned.

The Lungs and the Life.

The importance of the lungs to the health of the human body are too well known to need much discoursing about. Every man knows when he gets a cough that unless it is cured it will fasten upon the lungs and destroy life. What thousands of coughs and incipient consumptions could be cured by a timely resort to Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, which not only heals the ulcers in the lungs but at the same time purifies and enriches the blood, and opens the obstructions which hinder the free action of the lungs! No better medicine for coughs and consumption is made than that made by Doctor Keyser, of 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh. If your druggist does not keep it send five dollars to Dr. Keyser, and he will send four bottles securely boxed, by express, with full directions how to use it.

—There may be probability in and parallels for this astounding story, but few are on record. James T. Anderson of Glenwood, Iowa, in a sportive mood practicing gymnastic exercises, fell from the bars, while suspended by his feet, and striking on the back of his neck; was instantly struck as with paralysis save in the head, where a perfect consciousness remained. He was bewildered by the sudden pain and loss of the use of the rest of his body, but bore up dauntlessly. He experienced an inexpressible tingling though his body seemed to him a mass of jelly; when touched it felt as though broken into fragments. The actual situation, discovered by diagnosis, was a broken neck, and to the amazement of everybody the man not only did not die, but is living and promises to live with a dead body attached to his living head. Still further he accepts the situation unmurmuringly, and has begun to learn to write with his lips, and indeed has attained some proficiency in that singular method, and writing to a friend facetiously says that he "now writes a tolerably good mouth." He has been sadly troubled by flies, against which he is totally unprotected; this however, he is now in a fair way of remedying by keeping a leaf in his mouth continually twirling.

—The severest gale experienced for a long time swept over Lake Erie on Wednesday evening. The steamer Lady Franklin left Erie for Fort Stanley in the fore part of the night, but was compelled to put back. The sea ran extraordinarily high, and it is likely vessels were driven in at various places. The schooner Rea Stearns, of Port Burwell, loaded with coal, was driven upon the stone pier about one o'clock this morning, and soon went to pieces. As soon as the vessel struck the crew jumped upon the pier, and although the waves washed over them, they saved themselves. The cargo was shipped by Barrett & Rhodes, of Cleveland, and was insured in the Commercial Insurance Company of Chicago.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH PERFECTED!—T. J. & H. J. CHANDLER have purchased the exclusive right of Beaver county to use Dr Stuck's Patent by which they can put up Vulcanite as thin as Gold Plate, with a beautiful enameled polish; and so light and elastic as to perfectly adapt itself to the mouth; obviating all that clumsy and bulky condition, so much complained of heretofore; and lessening their liability to break 100 per cent. Indeed, no one seeing it would be willing to wear the old style plate any longer than they could conveniently get them exchanged. All branches of Dentistry performed in the best and most substantial manner. In filling teeth with gold, etc., we challenge competition from any quarter, and can refer to living subjects whose fillings have stood between thirty and forty years. Among the number filled some 35 years ago; the teeth as perfect as the day they were filled. Laughing gas prepared on a new plan, freeing it from all unpleasant and dangerous effects, making the extraction of teeth a source of pleasure rather than pain and pain. Prices as low as any good dentist in the State. Office at Beaver Station, Rochester Pa.
